Center for Integrative Research in Conflict Archaeology

Gulf Archaeology Research Institute is excited to announce its newest research department: the Center for Integrated Research in Conflict Archaeology. We hope to create an inclusive space where scholars and researchers from all backgrounds and disciplines can have a place to collaborate and share resources.

Please visit our website to learn more about CIRCA and what we hope to accomplish. Email us with any suggestions you have for ways we can better serve the conflict studies community.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Michelle Sivilich, Ph.D.

Colin Parkman, Ph.D.

GET INVOLVED

Membership

By supporting CIRCA with your annual membership you ensure CIRCA can grow and be a community resource for conflict archaeology. You will receive our newsletter 2x a year. Visit our website to learn more about member benefits for $20 a year.

Research Fellowships

We are seeking early career researchers to join us for a 2 year fellowship to create a conflict archaeology textbook. Fellows receive a $500 stipend, an institutional affiliation with an email address, mentorship, and more

Advisory Board

We are seeking researchers and scholars who have a long history working in or adjacent to the field of Conflict Studies that would like to serve on our steering committee to help us grow CIRCA into a research hub for the research community as well as to help mentor scholars new to conflict archaeology.

GOALS

- A cohort of Research Fellowships accepted every 2 years to publish a monograph and receive a stipend
- A repository for conflict research
- A message board for conflict-related field schools, jobs, internships, and other opportunities
- A place to share ideas, methods, new technologies
- Scholarships for student travel to conferences
- To provide an affiliation for independent researchers
- Hopefully the ability to write grants and conduct new research in the future
- And more!
